

Scott Dunn: Pianist

As a pianist and collaborator, Dunn has appeared with some of the world's finest artists. He is an acclaimed interpreter of contemporary and American music who has premiered and recorded works by such composers as John Adams, Richard Rodney Bennett, Julius Eastman, Lukas Foss, Peter Lieberson and Ned Rorem.

Early in his career he served as touring pianist for the Martha Graham Dance Company and for the USIA, he toured Eastern Europe as an Artistic Ambassador, playing twentieth century American works such as Ives' Concord Sonata.

Next season, Dunn looks forward to the release of two new recordings; one of mid-century modernist film music arranged by Dunn for orchestra and recorded in London with the Britten Sinfonia and another set of film music arrangements featuring Dunn himself on solo piano. He is currently working on a number of arrangements of film music for his orchestra by such composers as Alex North, Jerry Goldsmith, David Raksin, Henry Mancini and others.

Dunn also looks forward to the premiere, in future seasons, of a new rhapsody for piano and orchestra commissioned from composer Joby Talbot.

Scott Dunn is a Steinway Artist.
